Tight Laws, Police Aid
Main Road Safety Plans

Expense to City
Called Necessary
In Vital Program

The Legislature is to be asked for tougher traffic laws this year, and communities will be expected to go along with a safety program calling for adequate police manpower and modern equipment.

This was heard at Friday night's session of Governor Harriman's State Traffic Safety Conference in Albany attended by 180 mayors, police chiefs and other officials, including Mayor Frederick H. Stang of this city and Lt. Robert F. Murphy, local police traffic director.

After Second Officers

The governor said he would propose the mandatory 60-day suspension of licenses of motorists convicted twice within a year for speeding.

The law now provides for revocation of licenses of drivers convicted three times within 18 months.

Michael H. Prendergast, director of the New York State Division of Safety, said "I think we will all agree that one of our immediate tasks is to intensify and expand the enforcement of traffic laws and rules of the road."

Stresses Police Training

"A really effective program of enforcement means adequate manpower and modern equipment."

"It means expanded police training and traffic control courses, based on new methods of enforcement, streamlined police thinking and an exact knowledge of traffic accident experience."

"And it means improved working conditions to better morale and attract increased numbers of qualified men to career police service."

Other Harriman Points

In his talk, Governor Harriman also proposed:

1. Counting any out-of-state traffic convictions in determining action against New York motorists.
2. Elimination of a requirement that police must follow a speeding motorist for a quarter-mile before making an arrest.

Harriman said the latter change would encourage wider use of radar in determining speed.

The governor said New York's 2,005 fatal highway accidents last year was equivalent of 5.1 deaths for every 100 million miles traveled, compared with a national average of 6.1.

He said that, while the state's fatal-accident rate was lower than the national average, "we cannot be complacent."

Local Action Needed

Safety Director Prendergast said two conclusions are immediately evident:

1. We must gear our safety

Real Estate Men
Favor Sales Tax

The Ulster County Real Estate Board went on record unanimously Friday night in favor of a retail sales tax as a source of municipal revenue.

Several tax measures were discussed but it was the feeling of the board that a sales tax would most effectively meet the present situation.

See 25 PC Reduction

It was estimated at the meeting that imposition of such a tax would reduce the current tax rate by approximately 25 per cent and more equitably distribute the cost of city facilities among all users, including persons residing outside the city limits, transients, etc.

The city administration is also engaged in intensive study of the problem of taxation. At the last meeting of the Common Council early this week an increase in the parking meter charge from five to 10 cents was proposed as a possible source of additional revenue.

The amendment voted 7-6 raising the meter charge reads as follows:

"When any vehicle shall be parked in any space adjacent to which a multiple meter parking meter is located in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance, the operator shall upon entering said parking space, deposit one five cent coin of the United States for a period of 30 minutes or any part thereof and an additional five cent coin for an additional 30 minutes or any part thereof."

Say Some to Move

At the meeting of the real estate board in the Governor Clinton Hotel several members indicated that a number of home owners are "seriously contemplating disposing of their Kingston properties and moving to outlying areas."

It was the consensus that the real estate tax, as now constituted, works an "unbearable hardship" on the property owner and "actually discriminates against home and property owners."

Committee Named

The board plans to take "aggressive action" to relieve owners.

Big Turnout Due
On Final Night

The city's second annual automobile show, sponsored by the Kingston Automobile Dealers Association, will close at 10:30 p. m. today at the state armory, Manor avenue.

One of tonight's features will be the awarding of new 1957 automobile in the low price field. The new car will be given away at 10 p. m. Doors were scheduled to open at 2 p. m. today.

1,500 Attend Friday

Attendance last night of 1,500 persons put the three-day total over the 2,000 mark, it was reported by John Hayes Jr., president of the association. A total of 1,040 persons attended the show Wednesday and Thursday, Mr. Hayes said.

"We are highly gratified over the response to this year's show," Mr. Hayes said, "and, of course, we feel tonight, the last night of the show will attract hundreds more. The new 1957 model in the low priced field will be given away at 10 p. m."

Mr. Hayes noted the many dealers exhibiting in the show have changed their models for the last night "and we invite those who attended one of the previous nights to come back again and see some of the other models." He stressed that there is ample space in the armory for inspection of the cars. "Car doors can be easily opened and there is adequate room for a complete inspection of any model," he said.

Profits to Chest

Mr. Hayes stressed that net profits of the show will be donated to the Kingston Area Community Chest, Inc., which serves as fund-raising agent for eight separate agencies in the Kingston area.

Flight Shows Need
Of Overseas Bases

By ELTON C. FAY
(AP Military Affairs Reporter)

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force has given the world—and especially Russia—a spectacular demonstration of its ability to deliver H-bombs to any point on the face of the earth.

Presumably the globe-circling flight of three B52 heavy jet bombers, ended yesterday, also has impressed Congress—now beginning to consider appropriations for the armed forces.

But the dramatic demonstration also has pointed up another strategic fact:

Refueling Vital

The United States still must rely on overseas bases for global operation of its Strategic Air Command (SAC) bombers.

Tanker aircraft for refueling the three Stratofortresses had to be deployed at intervals along the 24,325-mile route around the midriff of the world.

Without such in-flight refueling, a B52 can fly approximately 6,000 miles. Allowing time to maneuver over the target and for evasive action shortens its striking range to about 2,500 miles.

Weakness Recognized

It is a weakness recognized by top commanders, including Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, chief of the big bomber force.

It makes vital the retention of U. S. rights to use overseas bases for spotting its tanker planes. Those rights depend on continued good relations with foreign nations in which the bases are operated—Denmark, which owns Greenland—Morocco, England, Germany, Saudi Arabia, the Philippines, Japan.

It also depends upon the ability of the United States and its friends to protect those bases against enemy attack in event of war.

May Stretch Reach

Fuel and engine designers hope to stretch the reach of planes by improving jet engine designs and fuels, possibly including eventual development of chemical fuels or additives to liquid fuels.

Meanwhile, the air force has given high priority to development of a nuclear powered aircraft—a plane which could fly

GOP to Hear
Hall Choice
On Successor

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—Ray Bliss, Ohio state Republican chairman, was pushed today for the chairmanship of the GOP National Committee. But H. Mead Alcorn Jr. of Connecticut was reported "still on top of the list" of prospects for the post.

Leonard W. Hall, retiring chairman, called the 146-member national committee together in closed session (10 a. m. EST) to announce his choice of a seven-member group to canvass suggestions for his successor. Hall has resigned effective Feb. 1.

The full committee will vote on a new chairman Tuesday after the smaller group confers with President Eisenhower.

In advance of Hall's action, John Feikens, Michigan state chairman, announced his support of Bliss, although Bliss has said he is not a candidate for the national chairmanship.

"In one of the original Eisenhower supporters in 1952 who is for Ray Bliss," Feikens said in an interview.

"I don't bow to any Republican in my liberalism and I regard Bliss as a Liberal. He has shown the organizing ability that we need to win the 1958 congressional election and he's my choice."

Bliss, who was closely associated with the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, declined comment on Feikens' statement.

The Ohio chairman has been tabbed by many midwestern and far western committee members as their choice for the top party post.

Along with most other Republicans, Feikens conceded that if Alcorn is Eisenhower's pick, the Connecticut national committee man will get the job. Alcorn was an early booster of Eisenhower for President in 1952.

The hope of Feikens and some others who are not enthusiastic about Alcorn is that Eisenhower may decline to state his preference if the seven-member group presents more than one name to the President.

The report that Alcorn heads the list of prospects came last night from a highly placed Republican who asked that his name not be used. He agreed four or five persons were being discussed for the chairmanship. But he predicted there would be no contest once Eisenhower's wishes are known.

Stock Market Drop
Worst in 8 Months

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—The stock market this week took its worst set-back in nearly eight months.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $5.50 to $176.00. It was the second straight weekly decline. This week's decline was the steepest since the week ended May 26 when the AP average dropped $7.90.

Hard Push Friday

About 40 per cent of the loss occurred yesterday when an already declining market was given a hard push downward near the close by the Russian-Chinese declaration that it would "protect" the Near and Middle East against "aggression and interference" from the Eisenhower doctrine.

This news help bring about the market's biggest daily loss since Oct. 31 when prices toppled on reports of the British-French invasion of Egypt. But the market already was down sharply on the day and on this whole week before the bulletin came from Moscow.

Wall streeters gave various reasons, technical and otherwise, for the market's weakness.

In the previous week it had backed away for the fourth time from the interim high of last September. A reaction to a lower point where a buying drive could develop would be the natural thing to expect in view of past history.

What Analysts Think

Because of this situation, there were analysts who said the market would continue to decline for technical reasons until it had consolidated enough for a rally. This, in fact, was exactly what happened in the week ended May 26 when the market sank close to its present levels, fell off a bit more, then staged the greatest one-day rally since Sept. 5, 1939. That whole performance was based largely on technical factors.

This past week, however, there were economic and industrial factors which shared credit for declining stock prices. Prime among these were reports that the nation's basic steel industry was experiencing a totally unexpected slackening in demand for some steel products, especially

Local Insurance
Agencies Merge

Announcement was made this week that Herman J. Eaton, Inc., Insurance Agency, has combined with the Walter Donnamma Agency. The Eaton company, located for many years at 42 Main street, has moved into larger quarters formerly occupied by the Donnamma Agency at 261 Fair street.

The development came about after Mr. Donnamma's decision to reduce his business activities for reasons of health. He will continue his activities in the real estate field mainly, but will still be available for consultation on insurance matters.

Active Civic Leader

Herman J. Eaton, president of the expanded organization, which will continue to be known as Herman J. Eaton, Inc., is a chartered life underwriter, with many years of successful insurance experience to his credit.

Prominent for his active interest and leadership in Kingston civic affairs, he is president of the Kingston Jewish Community Council, vice president of the Congregation of Agudas Achim, and is active in the Kingston Area Community Chest. He has headed the United Jewish Appeal.

Cold Still Grips State,
8 Below Here

Frigid weather continued to grip the area today for the sixth straight day as a low of eight below was recorded in the city during the night and the mercury dropped to one below at Brown's Station on the Ashokan Reservoir.

Temperatures hovered near zero and up to eight inches of blowing, drifting snow hit western sections of New York state today as the state neared the end of the coldest week in its history, the Associated Press reported.

Forecasters said a warmer trend was on the way. But temperatures were expected to again flirt with the zero mark tonight.

More Snow Update

Between six and eight inches of snow fell during the night in sections of western New York. Spotty squalls continued today. Two inches of new snow was reported in the city of Buffalo.

The wind-whipped snow cut visibility and made driving difficult. Many side roads were blocked by drifts. All main highways were open but very slippery.

Ice has thickened to 12 inches in the Hudson river during the cold spell, but barges and tankers navigate the channel in both directions through the assistance of the U. S. Coast Guard. Icebreakers continue to patrol the river in an effort to assist any craft blocked by the ice.

Driver Is Held
In Ellenville
After Road Tieup

A 36-year-old Gloversville man was arrested early last night on a charge of driving while intoxicated after a tractor-trailer he was operating went out of control on Route 52 in the village of Ellenville, completely blocking traffic for almost three hours.

Herman Wilson was arrested by Sgt. Abe Rand and Officer Sanford Krum of the Ellenville Police Department and committed to the village jail to await a hearing.

A load of white birch lumber on the trailer owned by Arnold B. Haire of Gloversville, slipped off and plunged through the cellar walls of a home on Mountain road, it was reported.

Ellenville police and Cpl. N. G. Leckies and Trooper Anthony Zaccari of the Ellenville state police were at the scene.

They said Mr. Wilson was pro-

Freeman to Carry Series
On State Car Inspections

Beginning Monday, Jan. 21, The Freeman will publish a series of 10 articles covering New York state's new motor vehicle periodic inspection program.

The program will start Feb. 1 in garages throughout the state which have been licensed as official inspection stations.

In 1957, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles estimates that 3,000,000 vehicles will be inspected.

For vehicles over four years old (1952 and older models), inspections are scheduled over a 10-month period according to model year of car.

Beginning May 1, inspection is required of used cars four or less years old if sold or transferred.

The new program is regarded as important to every motorist. Many questions concerning its application have been raised.

It is hoped that the series of articles to be published by The Freeman will clear up all or most of these questions.

State Laborer Is Rehired,
Refused Party Enrollment

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—Charles Saxby of nearby Windsor says he was rehired by the state after he complained to his congressman that he had been fired for refusal to enroll as a Democrat.

Rep. Sterling Cole, a Republican, said yesterday in Washington he had turned over to Broome county legislators what he termed a report of "vicious political blackmail."

Last night, Saxby told the Binghamton Sun he had accepted a telephone offer to return to his old job as a laborer in the public works department. He said the offer came from Russell Harris, a resident engineer in the department.

Saxby identified himself as the author of the letter to Cole.

State Sen. Warren M. Anderson said he believed the Republican-designated "watchdog" committee of the state legislature should look into the case to determine "if this is an isolated instance or part of a Harriman administration concerted policy."

Cole had said he had turned the letter over to Anderson and Assemblyman Daniel S. Dickinson.

Reds Gave Proof of Ambitions

Russia, Peiping
In Sharp Blast

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—Some Senators expressed the belief today that the joint Russian-Red Chinese attack on President Eisenhower's proposed Middle East program may assure its approval by Congress.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) told an interviewer he knew of no better way to get quick action than for the Communists to "wave the Red flag against it as they did yesterday."

Some Capitol Hill spokesmen, however, said, the Red reaction does not alter the situation and should have no bearing on the eventual Congressional decision.

Senator Sees Proof

He agreed with Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), another member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, that Moscow communique offered "proof" of Red designs on the Middle East.

"This bluster and talk just stiffens my backbone," Smith said.

Russia and Red China, in a joint statement issued in Moscow yesterday, denounced President Eisenhower's program to protect the Middle East from Communist aggression. The two Communist countries said they stand ready to "protect" nations of the area from "aggression and interference."

Step Expected

Eisenhower administration officials said they had been expecting such a step, and that the government certainly would push its mideast plan if it is approved by Congress.

Eisenhower seeks standby authority to use U. S. Forces in the Middle East to help any nation which asks for such aid in halting open Communist aggression there. He also is asking approval of a special military and economic aid program to strengthen free nations in the Middle East.

Chairman Gordon (D-Ill.) of the House Foreign Affairs committee announced plans aimed at getting final committee action on the Eisenhower resolution by the end of the coming week. Rep. Vorys (Ohio), a top committee Republican, predicts the resolution will be ready for House debate starting about Jan. 30.

Favor Own Merits

Several Senators emphasized in separate interviews their views that the Eisenhower plan should be considered on its own merits.

Inaugural Crowd
Begins to Check
In at Capital

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—A mighty throng of Americans poured into the capital today to join in celebrating the second inauguration of President Eisenhower.

An estimated 750,000 persons were expected to witness or take part in the many events planned for the next four days. But the overall attendance wasn't expected to be as big as in 1953 when Eisenhower entered the White House and the Republicans resumed government power after 20 years.

High point of the long inaugural weekend will be the public oath-taking by Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon in front of the Capitol building on Monday. Then will come the traditional inaugural parade from the Capitol to the White House, and four glittering inaugural balls that night.

Things get going in earnest today with receptions by various Republican and other groups, and an inaugural festival to-night featuring big names in the entertainment world.

The weather bureau said yesterday it expects colder than normal weather Monday, with a chance of rain or snow late in the day.

The President and vice-president will take the oath of office tomorrow in the White House in

Your Life And Mine

By CLYDE HERBERT SNELL
EYE-OPENERS

A recent popular TV program featured a family, the members of which, at the beginning of the play, were complaining about everything in their home. The stove was a "piece of junk," the refrigerator was just "no good," the wall paper was homely. The teen-age girl thought it was terrible that she had to run downstairs to answer the telephone. Why couldn't she have one in her own room? The boy couldn't see why he had to work with such "old tools." Nothing was right. And they spared no words in complaining to one another—and to the furnishings themselves—about it.

It so happened that they were contemplating buying a small island as a vacation project. The salesman lent them his boat to go and inspect it. While they were on the island, the boat, which they had neglected to fasten securely, drifted away; and they were forced to spend the night in an old, weather-beaten shack. Having nothing to eat they looked around and finally discovered some withered potatoes and dried-up onions which they cooked over an open fire for their supper. They slept (or tried to) on the hard, rough floor under some musty, ragged quilts which they resorted to in one of the closets. Toward morning they were rescued by a ranger. As the play ended, these folks were returning to their home. But they entered the door with a new appreciation for it. They kissed the stove, they caressed the refrigerator, they made remarks about how wonderful it was to have doors that were on hinges and windows that opened and closed. The boy even got down on his knees and said: "O, dear house, please forgive us for all the terrible things we said about you!"

How true to life that story is. We get so accustomed to our daily mercies that we are unaware of them. Very often we even complain about and find fault with the things for which we ought to be deeply grateful. Then something happens. The mercy suddenly is found missing. And, perhaps for the very first time in our whole lives, we see how precious the blessing was which we do not have any more.

Adversity is a great eye-opener. When things go smoothly and the blessings abound there is grave danger lest we become blind to the daily goodness of God. But let a little trouble come, a little bout with illness or misfortune, and our eyes are pruned open to see the wonder of the mercies that had nestled, all unconsciously, in our lot of life.

Someone has suggested this recipe for polishing the lenses of our eyes. Try to imagine what it would be like if everything you now have were suddenly taken away; health, home, material comforts, friends, church—everything. Then, after the full impact of your terrible plight had registered, suppose someone appeared out of the blue and gave it all back to you—nothing added, nothing changed—just as you have it now. What tears of joy and gratitude you now take for granted. Mercies you already possess would shine with new splendor if that were to happen.

The real nobility in life is in disciplining ourselves to see our countless daily mercies without waiting for adversities to etch them for us.

Methodists Allot $18,685,721 Fund For Service Work
Buck Hill Falls, Pa., Jan. 19 (AP)—The Methodist Board of Missions yesterday appropriated $18,685,721 for missionary and service programs at home and abroad.

The amount is almost half a million dollars more than the total appropriated last year. It is based on monies received from the denomination's churches during the last 12 months.

Score Refugee Bar
Closing its 17th annual meeting here, the board urged a revision of the McCarran-Walter Act to admit at least 300,000 immigrants annually "without discrimination as to race, sex or national origin."

Refugees in today's unsettled conditions should not have to be dependent upon emergency legislation, the board asserted in a resolution.

Concern was expressed for the "world-wide effect of restrictions contained in the present law which seem to have racial implications, such as the Asia-Pacific triangle provision which limits admission from vast areas of Asia to 2,100 a year."

Another resolution called for an interdenominational civilian ministry to American servicemen in the Far East. It would work with servicemen while they are off duty and off their posts.

Bishop Ralph E. Dodge, one of two Methodist bishops stationed in Africa, told the board that Africa would remain a scene of struggle for political, economic and social freedoms "for the rest of this century and thereafter."

Bishop Arthur J. Moore of Atlanta, Ga., commissioned 77 missionaries for American and overseas service as the board meeting came to a close.

A new chairman of the Ulster County Democratic Committee will be elected at a meeting on Thursday, Jan. 31, according to a notice sent to members by three prominent party leaders from this area.

The notice to committee members urging attendance at the meeting at the Ulster County Court House was signed by two officers of the county organization, Joseph Koenig, Kingston, Treasurer and Attorney Norman Kellar, New Paltz, secretary, also William Mahoney, chairman of the City of Kingston Democratic Committee.

Will Aid Jordan

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 19 (AP)—Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia agreed today to provide nearly 36 million dollars of Arab aid annually for Jordan to replace a British subsidy. Jordan wants the money in hand before ending its mutual defense pact with Britain.

The 10-year agreement was viewed here as an Egyptian-sponsored effort to dampen President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine. It was signed by Egyptian President Nasser, King Hussein of Jordan, King Saud of Saudi Arabia, and Premier Sabri Assali of Syria after two days of talks.

Shortly after the signing King Saud flew toward Italy to take a ship for the United States for talks with President Eisenhower, beginning Jan. 30.

Support Pledged

Moscow, Jan. 19 (AP)—Condemning the Eisenhower doctrine, the Soviet Union and Communist China have proclaimed their continued readiness to give Middle Eastern countries "any necessary support" to avert aggression and interference in their affairs.

A 2,000-word communique issued last night by Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and Soviet Premier Bulganin said:

"The governments of the Soviet Union and the Chinese People's Republic resolutely condemn this policy of the United States.

"They are prepared to continue to give any necessary support to the peoples of the Near and Middle East in order to avert aggression and interference in the affairs of the countries of that region."

Debate Near End

United Nations, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—The UN General Assembly today winds up a debate which began on a demand for getting Israeli forces out of Egypt and developed into a dispute on stationing UN units in the evacuated areas.

The 80-nation assembly is expected to give overwhelmingly approval to an African-Asian resolution calling on Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld to report completion of the Israeli withdrawal within five days. Israel has said all its troops will be out of Egypt next Tuesday, except for those occupying the disputed Gaza Strip and the Sheikh El Sharm area commanding the Gulf of Aqaba.

The final phase of the assembly debate took a turn which may bring a review of the entire scope of the UN emergency force assignment in Egypt.

Big Vote Indicated

Warsaw, Jan. 19 (AP)—A big voter turnout—perhaps 90 per cent of those eligible to cast ballots—is indicated for tomorrow's election of Poland's new Parliament.

This time, however, the Communists' hand-picked National Front candidates won 99.97 per cent of the vote in the last parliamentary election, in 1952. No other candidates were on the ballot.

Tomorrow, for the first time since Poland came under Communist rule, the voters have a limited freedom of choice. They can strike out the names of candidates they do not want to represent them in the new Parliament. The majority of candidates are pledged to back the regime. Qualified observers said perhaps 60 per cent of those expected to cast ballots were prepared to "vote the list."

The day's activities will include (all times eastern standard):

Noon—Public oath-taking by President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon, and the President's inaugural address. East main steps of the Capitol.

1:30 p. m.—Inaugural parade 1:30 p. m.—Inaugural parade down Pennsylvania avenue.

9 p. m.—Four inaugural balls, at National Guard Armory, and three hotels. The President and vice president plan to appear briefly at each.

those used for autos, appliances and office equipment.

Auto Sales Decline
In addition, there was a report of declining auto sales.

The "tight money" situation was emphasized by reports that the federal reserve board was considering further restrictive policies.

Uncertainty was created by the combination of President Eisenhower's budget message with the warning by Secretary Humphrey that such high government spending would lead to depression. Neither of these items had a direct, immediate impact on the market but they were contributions to an already nervous atmosphere.

Losses in Steel
The market did not have a single session when it staged a clear-cut advance this week, although Wednesday's was a mixed performance which could have been called a slight rise or loss, depending on what stock average was used.

Steels were under special pressure by losses of 8 1/2% at Bethlehem and 4 1/2% by Republic Steel in the week.

The five most active stocks on the American Stock Exchange were:

Coastal Caribbean Oils, up 1/4 at 2 1/2 on 225,100 shares; Pancoast Petroleum, up 1/4 at 1 1/2; Northspan Uranium, off 1/4 at 6 1/2; Nickel Rim Mines, off 9/16 at 4 1/2; and Devon-Palmer Oil, up 5/16 at 1 15/16.

The five most active stocks on the New York Stock Exchange were:

General Motors, off 1/4 at 40 1/2 on 219,700 shares; Glenn L. Martin, up 1/4 at 44 1/2; Raytheon, off 1/2 at 18 1/2; U. S. Steel, off 5/8 at 65 1/2; and Benguet, up 1/4 at 1 1/2.

Attack on . . .

without regard to the Communist statement.

Sen. Green (D-RI), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, voiced this sentiment when he said the U. S. decision must not be contingent "upon what the states dominated by international communism threaten, but rather upon decisions as to what our national interests require."

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Forces committee, and Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.), a member of the Foreign Relations committee, said the Moscow communique did not "change the situation."

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said the communique "appears to be designed to give moral backing to those nations in the Middle East who either are not in favor of the Eisenhower resolution or look at it askance."

Other Comments
Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said the Moscow announcement "should point up the issue for Congress and the free people of the world."

Sen. Barrett (R-Wyo.) said: "Secretary of State Dulles told us there would be strong reaction from the international Communists. Inasmuch as they are so vigorously opposed to this proposal it seems to me the President is on the right track."

And Sen. Capeworth (R-Ind.) said the Communists offered "proof positive" of their aggressive intentions.

Proof of Threat
Sparkman said the Moscow communique "may be the proof of the danger of the Communist threat to the Middle East about which Secretary Dulles has been talking."

"Maybe Mr. Dulles will take Congress more fully into his confidence when he returns to the witness stand Thursday," Sparkman added.

Dulles is scheduled to testify again Thursday at a joint meeting of the Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees.

Decree Seen
Such consequences inevitably would make Egypt far more dependent on economic ties with Moscow, thereby increasing Moscow's political influence over one of the key countries in the Middle East.

The State Department admittedly is deeply concerned over the possible effects of the new law. But officials say it has been impossible to assess its impact because the text of the decree has not yet been made public.

HALL'S ACHIEVEMENT

Neither Democrats nor Republicans are likely to deny that Leonard Hall is the most effective national chairman the GOP has had in many a day. His resignation is an event of political significance.

Having done his part to translate President Eisenhower's tremendous popularity into a smashing second victory at the polls last fall, Hall may well feel that his most important contribution to the Republican organization now has been made.

Few professionals in either party will forget that, in the deep gloom that afflicted Republicans on the occasion of the President's heart attack in 1955, Hall voiced a bold optimism which dared to suggest that Mr. Eisenhower might still run again.

He turned out to be the surest prophet. Qualified national chairmen must of course be skilled diplomats. But the diplomacy with which Hall charted his party's path during the uncertain days of the President's recovery and then his second illness won wide admiration among the pros.

To be sure, a national chairman has a responsibility to try to put his party into power not only in the White House but in Congress as well. This Hall could not do, though as a 14-year veteran of the House he thoroughly understood the problems of getting elected.

The political historians are saying, however, that the American public does not appear at this stage to have great confidence in either major party.

That being so, neither Hall nor Chairman Paul Butler of the Democratic National Committee can fairly be blamed for the failure of their party candidates to win sweeping majorities in Congress.

Some will note that while Hall did help to win the biggest prize for his party, he had the incomparable assistance of Mr. Eisenhower, one of the most popular political figures in U. S. history.

True enough. But no expert politician is overlooking the fact that Chairman Hall made the very most of the "material" at his command.

A lot of people are so busy striving to reach their goals in life that they never have time to stop and think of what those goals might be.

DROUTH AID NEEDED

Something more than has already been done must now be done to alleviate human suffering in the drouth-stricken Southwest. The federal government has been spending money rather heavily in that area during the past year. But the cumulative impact of a drouth that has spread and become steadily more severe over the course of seven years now requires broader measures than those that have been employed.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has warned that "large areas of the Southwest may become desert land, unfit for human or animal habitation," unless the land is given a chance to recover from the effects of drouth. Even when some allowance has been made for the natural partisanship of a man arguing for a program of relief, this is disturbingly close to a real picture of the situation.

The trouble is that when the land is as dry as it is now in the Southwest, normal grazing becomes over-grazing. That can do permanent damage to grasslands. This argues for some sort of land retirement plan. A group of Texas legislators has introduced a plan whereby the government would be authorized to rent land from farmers and ranchers until the area has recovered. A similar proposal is being considered by the administration. Something of this sort seems feasible.

Other things could be done, also. This is not a mild situation that can be mildly dealt with, but a major crisis involving the basic economy of a section that embraces several states.

President Eisenhower's quick circuit of the drouth area dramatizes the need. Dra-

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
ELVIS PRESLEY

I took my young daughter to a movie house to see the picture in which Elvis Presley sings and gyrates and acts quite the hero. I needed a member of the younger generation to translate the current vernacular into spoken English if words were used which an older like myself could not quite dig. In front of me were four youngsters who were devoting themselves to "soul-kissing" which means that while they paid for their tickets, their business excluded Elvis altogether, except that he might have provided an obligato for their osculations.

All social phenomena need to be noted if we are to appreciate the age in which we live and it can truthfully be said that young Elvis can sing well if you like ballads and hill-billy music which, after all, is of the people and can in time be worked into symphonic pieces as Dvorak did with Stephen Foster's songs and Aaron Copland did in his "Appalachian Spring."

Folk music should not be disdained even by long-hair musicologists who always know what everything should be like according to musical history but who cannot turn out a tune that folks might whistle as one does the Wedding March from "Lohengrin" which even the most unmusical know because it is related to what comes most naturally, namely, a marriage.

Whereas Elvis Presley sings ballads surprisingly well and whereas his Elizabethan drawl is piquant, his gyrations are unnecessary, ugly and stupid. He can outlast them as many a singer and actor has outlasted an easy affectation designed to attract attention. In some instances, the player has nothing but the affectation and is sooner or later removed from the scene by popular shifts of taste. If Presley had nothing but his gyrations, he would soon disappear because they are not even good clowning, and for an older generation it can be said that Eva Tanguay was more attractive and adept.

But as a singer the boy can succeed. As somebody else has said, the caller at a square dance does not stand still like the Rock of Gibraltar; he sort of dances with his legs and shoulders as he tells the folks to swing their partners. I did not find Elvis's gyrations at all sexy, not like what used to go on in the old burlesque shows to which youngsters went before juvenile delinquency became so fashionable. If this younger generation can get bet-up over what Presley does, they are indeed a milk-and-water crowd who need some steel put into their spines. I saw better half a century ago. He will undoubtedly drop this act when he stops being a shill for shoe salesmen and button manufacturers and falls into the hands of a competent director and coach who could turn him into another Bing Crosby which is going pretty far in the right direction. But the gyrations stand in the way of a successful career.

The young people of this generation act often and talk more often as though they had discovered sex. One need only remind them of Helen of Troy or the Queen of Sheba or of Yang Kuei-ling to learn that what they think is so very current and modern existed always and that Eve knew more about it than they do, having had a long talk with the serpent on the subject. So, down, Fido! and learn your manners.

Rudolph Valentino and Frank Sinatra built careers on fainting juveniles but neither of them ever knew the glories of the matinee idol of an earlier period who was worshipped for the curl of his hair and the majesty of his fur collar. Life is pretty much the same at one time as at another and humans have not changed greatly even though every youngster talks about how times change. "Pamela" and "Pride and Prejudice," etc., etc., all the story about it as it should be told today, except the language is different, but none of us, of whatever age, in our times have reverted to the coarse language current among ladies and gentlemen at the court of Elizabeth I.

So, those who are so excited about the gyrations of Elvis Presley, may subside. He is nothing to get excited about and if the parents will bring up their children properly, they need not fear Elvis at all.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.
GALL STONES

The mere existence of stones does not mean that surgery MUST be performed. There are many people in this world who, despite a gall bladder filled with stones, never develop symptoms of their presence. Nevertheless, the majority of people so affected will sooner or later turn up with one of the following symptoms:

1. Indigestion after eating fried, fatty or greasy foods.
2. Indigestion after eating such vegetables as turnips, cabbage, sprouts, radishes, pickles, etc.
3. Indigestion after eating certain raw fruits and fruit skins.
4. Nausea, heartburn, bloating and flatulence (distension due to gas).
5. Attacks of pain, sometimes taking the form of excruciating, knife-like, colicky spasmodic pain, in the upper part of the abdomen and often shooting to the back or right shoulder region.

The severe pain is the result of one of the stones getting caught in the small cystic duct which leads away from the gall bladder. This duct normally has the diameter of an ordinary lead pencil. Under the stimulation of food, the bladder contracts powerfully and forces a stone into this small tube which usually has a smaller diameter than that of the stone.

An acute episode of this kind can have any one of three endings: the stone can drop back into the gall bladder and the attack subsides; the stone can remain stuck in this small duct thus producing an acute infection which will require more or less immediate surgery for the removal of the organ; or the stone can pass through this duct into the common bile duct.

Once in the common bile duct, the stone will pass either through into the intestine or it may get caught just at the exit of the duct into the intestine. Should this latter situation take place, the entire flow of bile is obstructed and the patient develops jaundice. Jaundice (yellowish discoloration of the skin) is a serious complication demanding urgent surgery. In these cases, not only the stone-bearing gall bladder is removed but the common bile duct is opened and the obstructing stone or stones picked out.

The removal of the gall bladder is considered to have little more danger than that for an operation on the appendix. When operation is performed for a gangrenous gall bladder, an acutely inflamed gall bladder, or in the presence of jaundice and a common bile duct stone, it is a more serious undertaking than when it is performed for a chronically inflamed or quiet gall bladder. At our present state of knowledge, there is no known drug which will dissolve gall stones and no medication to cure gall bladder disease.

matizing it is only a start, however. It is to be hoped that the administration and Congress will now work together wholeheartedly, using the nation's resources wisely to help the region scourged by drouth. This is a matter of national concern.

How New Is the New Freedom?

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
NEA Service Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Other night Ike and Mamie dropped in on "Sunny" and Jane Weeks—commerce secretary and his wife—for dinner. Later, reporters trying to find out what was served met a wall of secrecy which would put the Pentagon censors to shame.

Mrs. W. finally broke down to a reporter, who badgered her unmercifully on the telephone, and revealed that the main course was a huge tenderloin steak.

"The full menus at our house are never divulged," she stated firmly.

IN SPITE of heated denials by inaugural officials, the fact is that sales of tickets to most events are alarmingly low. The whole show could go in the red. Four years ago it netted $100,000 for charity.

Some members of the Inaugural Committee say privately that one of the troubles has been the White House staff. They say the President's advisers have refused to let Ike be personally identified with the inaugural promotion and as a result the public hasn't become interested in it.

Last-minute efforts are being made by worried inaugural officials to get Ike to say or do something which will add a little personal juice to the three-day affair.

THERE ARE FOUR inaugural balls this time but everybody is fighting to get tickets to one at the new Sheraton-Park ballroom. Word is out that this will be the most exclusive and that Ike will visit it last and probably stay there to dance with Mamie.

Mr. Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson will be the top official hosts at the S-P ball.

Ball officials are going crazy trying to convince customers that the other three, at the army, Statler and Mayflower, will be just as fancy and that Ike will spend equal time at each.

COCKTAIL CHATTER:

Venezuelan oil millionaires are beginning to edge out Texans as the big spenders around the world. Story told at an embassy party claims that a Venezuelan went into a men's shop of a fancy hotel in the Caribbean last week and saw a suit for $150 that took his fancy. He promptly bought a dozen of them.

A real back-stage scrap between Defense Secretary Wilson and the Marine Corps has been developed. Seems Wilson has been pressuring to get his military aide, Marine Col. Carey Randall, promoted to general.

The Marine Corps, traditionally opposed to political promotions for its officers, has resisted. At this stage Wilson is in front. He has recommended the promotion of Randall, Marine Commandant General Pate has approved it and the promotion is now up to Congress.

Pate's action in this matter is just another source of irritation to a lot of Marines.

CAROLYN HAGNER SHAW, the town's social arbiter and publisher of the Social List of Washington, thinks Defense Secretary Charles Wilson is one of the most charming men in the Cabinet. But she wishes desperately that Charlie would give some official word on whether he's leaving or staying in the Cabinet.

Her problem is the fact that the election supplement to the Social List, with names and addresses of new members of Congress, must go to press in the next few weeks. She does not want to list Wilson if he's leaving.

Wilson plans to stay until he gets the new budget pushed through Congress, which could take many months.

THE AMERICAN Red Cross has just received a $1,000 check for Hungarian relief from a man who knows plenty about the wrath of Communist oppression. His name? Syngman Rhee, president of South Korea.

AT LAST Sen. Russell Long (D-Ala.) age 38, is going to be able to shake off the title of "boy senator." At least he hopes so.

Long is turning the upper chamber's "short pants" crown over to newcomer Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho), 32, who could easily qualify for the Vienna Boys' Choir.

AFTER FIVE you can find shrimp at any of a dozen parties along embassy row, but experts agree that it tastes better at the Brazilian embassy than anywhere else.

The chef at the embassy covers shrimp with a thin batter and then cooks it in deep fat. At a reception the other afternoon guests kept coming back for more. They were also partial to plates piled with bits of grilled filet of beef.

"Unless the President wants me back for some special assignment," he qualifies.

He kept his apartment here during the campaign and after his defeat there was some talk of getting another administration job. But now he has decided he needs a rest and is going to Mexico with Mrs. McKay for several weeks before returning to Oregon.

83 Area Scouts Sign for Annual Jamboree Event

A total of 83 boy scouts from the local Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, have signed to attend the National Jamboree to be held at Valley Forge, Pa. during July of this year.

There are still 28 openings available for local use. It was learned at the scout office. These openings will be held until the national quota of 50,000 boys is completed.

Scout Executive George V. Dennis indicated that the current report from national headquarters showed a national total of over 32,000 scouts. He advised that local boy scouts planning to attend the jamboree should file their registrations as soon as possible—"before the national quota is filled."

Information concerning jamboree registration is available at the local scout office, 260 Fair street in Kingston.

Jury Still Out

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 19 (AP) — The Latham kidnapping case was in the hands of a jury for the third straight day today. There was no indication when a verdict could be expected. Five men and seven women make up the panel considering charges that Mrs. Victoria Beatrice Winn, 57, and Mrs. Lucille Whisenand, 36, kidnapped wealthy Mrs. Ruth E. Latham, 52, and tried to kill her. The two women, identified in court by Mrs. Latham as her kidnappers, have testified they themselves were kidnapped by three unknown men and a woman.

New York, Jan. 19 (AP) — Walt Disney productions and the American Broadcasting Co. have reached agreement on a contract of more than nine million dollars for 130 hours of television programming for the next two years. Under the contract, announced yesterday, Disney will produce three programs for ABC-TV, Disneyland, Mickey Mouse Club and a new series entitled Zorro. Zorro, a live action series of 39 weekly half-hour adventures, starts in October. It will be presented at night.

Week's Business & Finance Reported by AP

Upturn in Pork

Chicago, Jan. 19 (AP) — Butcher hogs and sows gained about $1.00 this week, going to the best prices in 18 months. Top was $19.25 as the week closed.

Local receipts were down about 15 per cent from the previous week and, exclusive of holiday shortened weeks, were the smallest since last October. These small receipts, plus strength in wholesale pork, backgrounded the upturn in live hogs. At Chicago pork lions gained $2.00 to $4.00 while in the east they were $3.00 to $7.00 higher.

Divergent trends appeared in steers and heifers. Light weight steers closed steady to 50 cents higher and heavy weights steady to 50 cents down. Receipts were 5 per cent higher than last week and the largest for any week in about 10 years.

Dressed beef prices both at Chicago and New York were steady to $1.00 higher for the week. Cold weather cuts such as chucks and rounds were in much broader demand than ribs and loins.

Lambs jumped 75 cents to as much as $1.00, while sheep gained 50 cents to $1.00 for the week. On Wednesday prices for lambs were the highest in 10 weeks. Advancing wholesale dressed lamb prices stimulated the demand in the live market.

Wheat, Rye Gain

Chicago, Jan. 19 (AP) — Wheat and rye stood out with the best gains in a mixed but mostly higher grain market on the board of trade this week.

Among other commodities, soybean meal and lard displayed unusual strength, going to new seasonal highs. Feed grains were mostly ahead a little but a majority of soybean futures ended lower. The distant contracts lost most.

Wheat closed the week 3/4-3/8 high, corn 1/8 lower to 1/8 higher, oats 1/8 to 1 cent higher, rye 3/8 to 5/8 cents higher, soybeans 1/4 to 1/8 higher and lard 15 to 30 cents a hundred pounds higher.

While both old and new crop wheat futures advanced, it was the new crop months which had the most spark.

Survey Prompts Buying

During the early part of the week President Eisenhower toured the drouth area in the southwest. The resultant publicity, stressing the serious crop situation, may have pumped some buying into wheat, brokers felt.

Only light scattered snow fell in the winter wheat area during the period, not enough to help the plant, and at times high winds were reported.

Extremely low temperatures in the midwest dropped up corn and oats even if it didn't cause them to stage any boom. The cold weather undoubtedly increased farm consumption of these two feed grains, brokers said.

The Commodity Credit Corp. continued to sell some of its surplus corn to exporters at prices below the level of which corn stored in Chicago can be shipped to seaboard points. This naturally weighed against any sharp price upturn.

Among the recommendations President Eisenhower made to Congress after his drouth area tour was for authority to use 25 million dollars for an emergency feed program in the southwest.

Cotton Trend Mixed

New York, Jan. 19 (AP) — Cotton futures prices held to a narrow range this week. The general trend of the market was mixed. Active contracts traded on the New York cotton exchange finished out the week at prices ranging from 55 cents a bale lower to 10 cents a bale higher than at the close of the week before.

Strongest factors on the bullish side were short covering and commission house buying. Some demand stemmed from a greater-than-expected volume of loan entries in the week ended Jan. 11. Offerings were furnished through light hedge selling, profit-taking and scattered liquidation on the possibility of a lower loan rate this year.

Total domestic cotton consumption for the current season through Dec. 31 came to 3,753, 000 bales vs. 3,921,000 bales at the same time last season.

Exports Run Ahead

While domestic use of the staple was far from encouraging, traders noted that exports were running far ahead of year-ago levels. For the week ended Tuesday, according to an estimate by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau, exports of U. S. lint cotton totaled a whopping 218,000 bales. This compared with 170,000 bales the previous week and only 24,000 in the like week last year.

Exports for the current season through Tuesday were estimated at 2,995,000 bales, against 721,000 a year ago.

Bond Review

New York, Jan. 19 (AP) — U. S. government bonds moved higher again this week but in a less impressive manner than the week before.

Corporate bonds generally finished about where they started after undergoing mild gross currents in moderately heavy trading. Utility and foreign dollar bonds inched upward on average, while rails and industrials were a shade lower. A few share privilege issues dropped sharply.

Long-term treasury obligations made the biggest gains. The treasury 3s of 1955 rose 28/32 during the week to 92 20/32 bid. The 3 1/2s of 1957-78 advanced 24/32 to 98 4/32 bid. Both the 2 1/2s of 1963 and the 2 1/2s of December 1972-67 were bid up 10/32 during the week.

Traders said much of the recent recovery in governments stemmed from professional activity among dealers, although they reported some new buying by pension and welfare funds.

Some Bigger Issues

Here are some of the bigger issues on next week's calendar: Pacific Gas & Electric Co. will sell 35 millions of first refunding mortgage bonds and Southwestern Gas & Electric 10 millions of 30-year bonds on Tuesday.

On Thursday, Atlantic City Electric will open bids on 10 millions of first mortgage bonds, and on Friday Koehring Co., Milwaukee, Wis., will sell 200,000 shares of common stock.

In the tax-exempt division, Tulsa, Okla., will come to market with $6,450,000 of various purpose bonds on Tuesday, and Birmingham, Ala., with $6,680,000 various purpose bonds on Wednesday. On Thursday, Boston, Mass., Metropolitan District will sell $8,128,000 of bonds and De Kalb County, Ga., School District will market $5,125,000 of bonds.

CROSSING ONE'S LEGS

The following letter comes from a young girl: "The other day in our etiquette class at school the question came up about the propriety of crossing one's legs. One of the girls said that on certain occasions it is entirely proper to cross one's legs provided the skirt is long enough so that the knee will not show. Others in the class disagree with her and says that one should never cross the legs at the knee. Will you please give us your opinion?"

If the crossed leg does not extend out and the skirt is full so that it falls down over the legs, it is quite all right. But if it is a tight skirt that pulls up over the knee it is all wrong.

Does Hostess Wear Hat?

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for a hostess to sit at her own lunch or tea table wearing a hat? A friend of mine tells me that this is correct. It seems ridiculous to me to put on a hat deliberately in your own house. Will you please settle this?

Answer: Usually a hostess does not wear a hat in her own house. But on the other hand, if the dress she is wearing is especially pretty with a hat that goes with it, and not as attractive without it, it is not unusual for a hostess to wear this hat.

Showing Appreciation

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a registered nurse having worked for the same doctor for the past five years. I resigned my position last year as I was expecting a baby. The doctor for whom I worked took care of me and never accepted one penny of payment for his services. Will you please tell me what would be the proper way to show my appreciation for his kindness?

Answer: There is nothing more proper for you to do than to express your heartfelt thanks.

Wedding Eve Kiss

(NEA Telephoto)

New Jersey's Gov. Robert B. Meyner, 48, greets Miss Helen Day Stevenson with a kiss as he arrives in Cleveland on their wedding eve. They will be married in Oberlin, Ohio.

Wedding of Governor, Miss Stevenson Climaxes Romance Born at Convention

Oberlin, Ohio, Jan. 19 (AP)—A romance that started at a mock political convention here last May and blossomed during the presidential campaign will be climaxed today with the wedding of New Jersey's Gov. Robert B. Meyner and Helen Stevenson.

Gov. Meyner and the tall, brunette Miss Stevenson will say their wedding vows at the altar of First Church, Congregational, this afternoon at 4 p. m., Eastern Standard Time. Her father, Oberlin College President William E. Stevenson, will give the bride away.

The 28-year-old Miss Stevenson said Meyner, 48, popped the question last summer while both were in Chicago at the Democratic national convention. Earlier, Miss Stevenson had been in New York helping out as a volunteer worker for Adlai Stevenson, twice-defeated Democratic presidential candidate and a distant cousin by marriage.

Adlai, who was here for a dinner following yesterday's wedding rehearsal, will be among guests at the double-ring wedding, Dr. Joseph F. King, minister of First Church, will perform the ceremony.

After the ceremony, from which news, television and movie cameras are barred, the couple will hold a picture-taking session in the basement of the 122-year-old church. Then they will go to the Stevenson home for a private reception.

At 7:30 p. m. the governor and the bride he met when he was keynote speaker at a mock political convention at the college are to start a honeymoon trip that will take them to New York for a day and to Barbados Island, British West Indies, for several days. New Jerseyans won't get a look at their new first lady until Feb. 3, when she will appear with the governor on his regular Sunday television program.

After that date, the new Mrs. Meyner will reign at Morven, Princeton estate given to New Jersey by ex-Gov. Edge.

While cameras will not be allowed at the church, reporters, who have been suddenly plentiful in this quiet college town for the past week, will be there in force. A special section has been set aside for the press in the church, which seats 962.

Miss Stevenson will wear a gown of candlelight peau de soi (French, literally skin of silk) with a "V" neck, which was worn by her sister, Mrs. Richard Hunt of Cambridge, Mass. Mrs. Hunt will be matron of honor.

Ingrid Returns After 8 Years, To Receive Award

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Ingrid Bergman came back to the United States today. She stepped off a plane at Idlewild Airport with a big smile and was greeted by a score of fans waving "welcome" placards.

"I feel fine," were the actress' first words upon her return for a quick 34-hour visit after an absence of nearly eight years.

100 on Hand

Including newsmen, about 100 persons were present as a Trans World airliner brought Miss Bergman from Paris. She peered from a window as the plane rolled up to the airport terminal.

Thirty-seven other passengers left the plane before the Swedish born actress appeared in the doorway. She wore a full length mink coat and a white print kerchief.

Smiling, she stepped down the ramp, then waved in response to pleas from photographers.

Returning Sunday

Miss Bergman made the flying trip here to receive the New York Film Critics' Award as the best actress of 1956 for her performance in Anastasia. She returns to Paris tomorrow night to continue her role in a smash stage hit there.

While she doesn't have much time to spend here, she has a busy schedule mapped out.

To See Musical

She will also cram in a matinee performance of the Broadway hit musical "My Fair Lady," a show she said she's been wanting to see for months. Whatever spare time remains will be spent shopping and seeing old friends.

The actress has not been in the United States since 1949 when she left to make the film "Stromboli" in Italy with Robert Rossellini. She and the Italian film director had a son and then married after Miss Bergman's divorce from her American husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

Just before her departure last night from Orly Airport in Paris, Miss Bergman told newsmen that "I feel completely calm, now."

"At first I was very excited at the idea of the trip, now it feels just like another journey."

Husband in India

Miss Bergman, dressed in a black suit, a mink coat and flat-heeled shoes, was seen off by scores of newsmen and photographers.

Her husband is in India making a film.

'Star' Has Plenty Of Living Space

Rooms Eight
Bedrooms Four
Closets Seven
Cubage:
House 35,200 ft.
Garage 5,000 ft.
Dimensions 53' x 36'

Presenting an attractively compact appearance for a two-story house, the "Star" offers a wealth of well planned living space.

On the first floor you'll find complete living facilities; you can use the den as a bedroom until the second floor is completed. If you need more than one bedroom you can finish off one or two of the upstairs rooms until such time as you want to complete the second floor.

The front door opens directly into a central hallway that connects with all of the rooms on the ground floor; stairs to the second floor and stairs to the basement open off this hallway, too. Thus, it's very easy to get from any part of this house to any other part... and, without, walking directly through the center of rooms to do so.

Both a living room and a dining room are included in this plan. Since the dining room opens directly off the kitchen it's easy to serve meals in this room. Thus no breakfast nook is required.

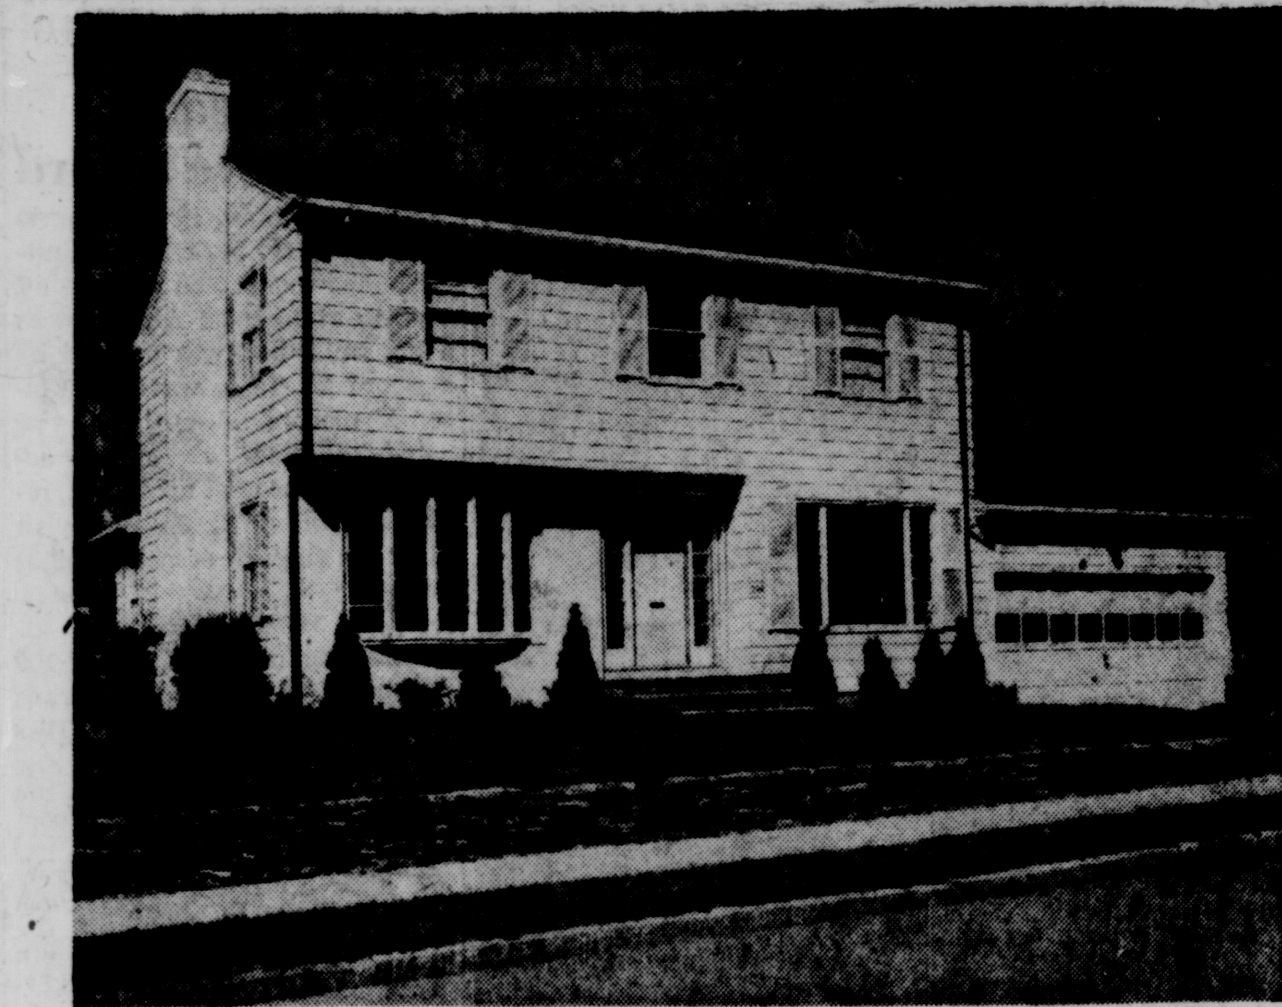

Carefully planned so that everything is within easy reach, the kitchen is of comfortable size. A window in the back wall—directly over the sink—brings added light and cheer to the room. An abundance of counter space, cupboards and cabinets make the kitchen a very pleasant work center.

Also opening off the kitchen is the laundry. A door in the right wall provides easy access to the back porch and yard. Since a door also leads from the porch to the garage you have a protected entrance to the garage—a feature you'll especially appreciate in stormy weather.

A lavatory is suggested for the first floor. The area so designated, however, is sufficiently large to permit the installation of a shower. The regular bath is located in the second story.

In the living room—which is the largest room in the house—generous window space and a large fireplace combine to make this an unusually appealing room. Plenty of unbroken wall space allows for easy furniture arrangement.

Four bedrooms are included in the second floor plan. If you don't need this much sleeping space, you can use one of the rooms as a sewing room or as a study for your school-age youngsters.

Throughout this house there are carefully located, good sized closets. And the abundance of windows adds both to the exterior and interior appearance.

Clapboards were used for the exterior of the house selected as an illustration. However, a brick or masonry finish could be used with very happy results. With over-all dimensions 53'x36', this eight-room house can be built on an 80-foot lot.

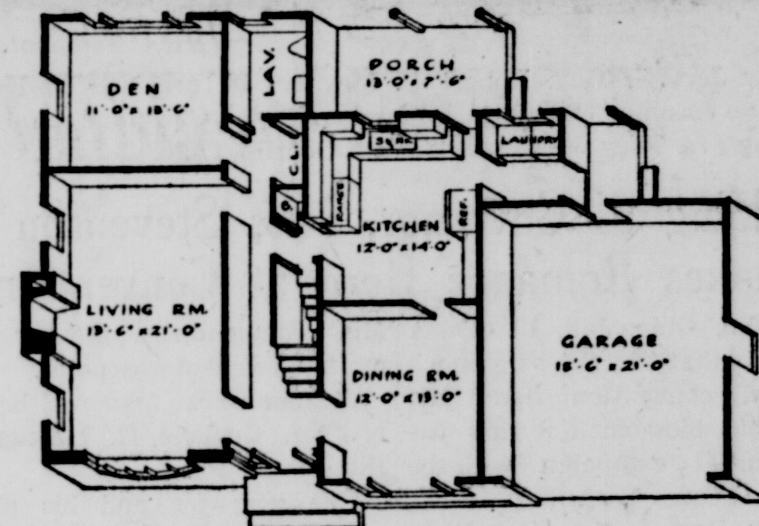

This design is approved by the VA and FHA. Complete blueprints and specifications of the "Star" are available with a money back guarantee if for any reason the builder decides not to proceed with building plans.

Blueprints Available

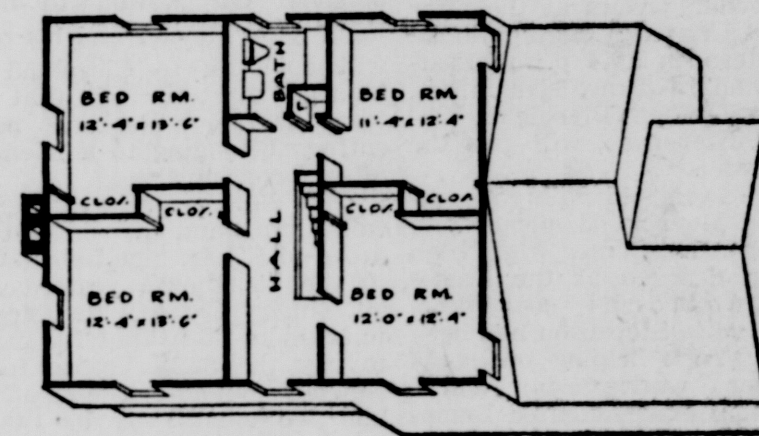

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. Address requests (mentioning name of home) to Home of the Week, Inc., Dept. KF, 87 Weybosset street, Providence, R. I.

New Range Cuts Time in Cooking

A new time table in home cooking has been opened to the American homemaker with the public introduction of the world's first electronic range for the home.

The revolutionary electronic range accomplishes these cooking wonders:
Broils bacon on a paper plate in two minutes.
Bakes a potato in five minutes.
Cooks a five pound beef roast in 30 minutes.
Heats a jar of baby food in 45 seconds.

Bakes a two-layer cake in six minutes in a cold oven.
Heats coffee directly in the cup, the saucer remaining cool.

The range itself is in the form of a compact, lustrous oven that can be installed as a built-in unit or stacked on cabinets as a modular unit. Browning of meats and casseroles, long the question mark of electronic cooking, is achieved by a super-speed coil element in the top of the oven.

Microwaves, the same type of energy which transmits the ultra high frequency signal on a television set, operate the unit. Since the heat is generated in the food itself, temperature controls are eliminated. The housewife turns on high or low speed, sets a timer dial, and the food automatically selects its own cooking or baking temperature.

Paint Baseboard Last

When painting the woodwork in a room, always save the baseboard for the last. If you paint this portion of the work before you've finished the rest of the trim you may find that your brush has picked up bits of dirt and dust and spread them over the more conspicuous areas.

Rounding Glass Edges

The edges of glass used for coffee tables and similar coverings can be ground to a rounded shape with an oilstone. Soak the stone in water before you start polishing the glass edge.

Among 'Most Wanted'

Floors of oak are among the "most wanted" features in new homes today, according to various surveys. In addition to offering beauty, ease of upkeep and lifetime service, such floors add to the resale value of a house, real estate dealers declare.

Painting a Ceiling

You'll find that there is less chance of paint running down the handle of a brush when you paint a ceiling if you allow the paint to be a little heavier than would be the case for walls.

Shellac for Sealer

Shellac does pretty well for a wood sealer that is applied before the final finish. For dark finishes use orange shellac and for light ones use white shellac.

Why Waste It?

The solid matter at the bottom of a container of oil paint makes good putty if mixed with powdered whiting.

Building Bathroom A Costly Project

It takes more on-the-site labor to put together the walls and plumbing of one small bathroom than it takes to frame a three-bedroom house. This was explained by builders at a panel discussion sponsored by House & Home, trade publication.

The average bathroom, they said, costs at least five times as much per square foot as any other room except a fully equipped kitchen.

Add-A-Shelf Idea Ups Storage Room

If you are "starved" for shelf space in your kitchen, but don't have room for additional cabinets, the Western Pine Association offers this space-saving tip:

Make more use of the cabinets you have by installing a narrow shelf at the back of your cabinets between each wide shelf.

For support, cut two pieces of three-quarter-inch stock as long as the width of the new shelf. Install them with screws on the inside walls of the cabinet far enough up to give headroom for tall items to be stored on the original shelf, but not so far up as to cramp storage on the new shelf. Then cut a pine board the width of the cabinet and nail it down to the supports.

You'll be surprised how many small glasses, cups, or small pantry items this extra shelf will hold.

Hardwood Floors

One of the advantages of hardwood floors is that they resist the indenting action of furniture legs and castors. Tests have shown that heavy objects resting on hard maple will not indent the wood even if unmoved for a long time.

Not a Trade Name

The term "broadloom" simply means a carpet six feet wide or wider woven on a broad loom. Axminster, wilton, velvet, chenille, tufting and other names are not brands but types of carpets.

Cracked Radiators

Cracks in cast iron radiators can usually be fixed by cutting them out with a small three-cornered metal file and then filling with iron cement.

Clean Cat

Mardela, Md. (AP)—Mrs. Francis Hopkins noticed her pet cat was missing when she was doing the family wash. The cat couldn't hear her call because it is deaf, but she soon heard from it. Pulling the plug of her automatic washer, she dragged out a soaking, undamaged and very clean cat.

Collector

Pontiac, Mich. (AP)—As her mother feared, two-year-old Sylvia MacKinnon had indeed swallowed a two-inch plastic doll. X-rays showed she also had swallowed a penny and an open safety pin. Surgery removed them all.

Wedges May End Floor Sag

When a house is built the general idea of whoever does the building is to make the floors good and solid. They usually start off that way but after a period of years things begin to happen. All sorts of things can happen but usually the trouble is with the girder.

The girder is that large beam that runs across the floor joists in the basement to give them additional support. It usually rests at each end on the foundation walls and it usually looks as solid as can be. Trouble is that often it is not as solid as it appears.

After a period of years the house foundations may have settled a little so that the girder has dropped a fraction of an inch. This means that it is no longer supporting the joists and so they begin to sag or the floor feels weak and bouncy.

Sometimes the ends of the girder that are in contact with the foundation wall have started to rot and, while the girder still remains solid, it has softened where the decay has softened the wood.

The nice thing about all this is that usually things can be fixed up without having to buy a new girder or do a lot of heavy repair work. Often all you have to do to pull up a girder that has dropped a little is to insert some wood wedges between it and the foundation wall and drive them in.

As they are driven in they'll raise the end of the girder that fraction of an inch necessary for it to once again support the joists. Sometimes, when this can't be done, you can drive the wedges between the girder and the joists and this will produce the same effect.

In some cases, of course, the girder is just not heavy enough to give the support to the floor that is necessary and the remedy here is to install a post at about the middle of the girder to help it out.

Wall Insulation Can Localize Fire

A thoroughly insulated house is often a house that's safer from fire.

This is particularly true when mineral wool is the insulating material and when it is installed so that it fills the walls.

Wall-thick mineral wool is accepted in building codes as a nonflammable fire stop. It makes it more difficult for a fire in the basement, where most fires start, to spread through the rest of the house.

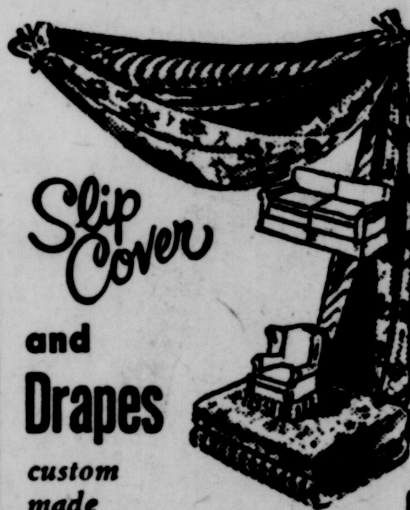

During a fire, the air space between the wall studs tends to act as a flue. A draft is generated between the studs, drawing the fire upward. The wall-thick insulation keeps the draft from forming. It also bars the way to the flames.

Wood Filler

If you need a wood sealer, shellac is commonly used for that purpose. A thinned coat of pure, white shellac will usually suffice but a second coat, when the first is dry, might be in order.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

Howard C. Shurter, county director Veterans' Service Agency, and William Hartman, state veteran counselor NYS Division of Veterans Affairs, submit another in a series of articles on rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen and their dependents:

PENSION: Age is an important factor in granting pension-connected pensions. The main age divisions are: below age 55, 55 to 59, 60 to 64, and over 65. The degree of disability necessary to meet the requirements of a total disability varies with these age brackets. Benefits may be disallowed when a veteran is in one age bracket, for example, and may be allowed when he advances to the next age group because the degree of disability required lessens as the age group increases. For instance, a veteran who could be denied a pension which, upon reappraisal on reaching age 55, may be allowed.

Free Licenses: Veterans who receive free automobiles through the Veterans Administration do not have to pay a New York state license registration fee. They must, however, indicate their desire to obtain free plates and complete necessary forms furnished by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. Veterans eligible for free licenses may also be eligible for a free permit to travel on the New York State Thruway.

Armed Forces: It is advisable to keep a copy of information submitted to the armed forces. This is particularly important in applying for dependency benefits. A copy of the data submitted in applying for a dependency allowance, for example, will permit an immediate review and possible corrective action in the event the request for dependency is denied.

Civil Service: Applications will be accepted up to February 1, 1957 for New York state civil service positions in the following categories: draftsman, engineering technician, court officer and court attendant, Supreme Court, 1st and 2nd Judicial Districts, estate tax examiner, accounting assistant, laboratory secretary, forest appraisers, game protectors, thruway toll collectors, bridge repair foreman, associate planning technician, and assistant director of social statistics. Competitive examinations for these jobs will be held on March 2, 1957.

Legislation: The National Association of State Approval agencies, according to its president, definitely favors an extension of the Korean GI bill with a few modifications for peacetime service veterans. This will provide powerful backing for legislation for educational benefits similar to those which were provided for veterans of WW 2 and the Korean emergency. Other reports, moreover, have shown that many members of Congress are also in favor of legislation to provide educational benefits for peacetime veterans as long as it is necessary to continue to select persons for military service on an involuntary basis. Educational benefits for veterans stopped January 31, 1955. Persons entering the armed forces after that date are not entitled to GI educational benefits.

Education: Vocational rehabilitation training may be granted to disabled WW 2 veterans after July 25, 1956 and up to July 25, 1960. Veterans who qualify for this benefit include those who had not attained, retained or regained medical feasibility for training because of mental or physical disability; those who established entitlement to service connected compensation too late to complete training before July 25, 1956; and those who now meet discharge requirements through the review and correction of their discharge.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted to the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main street, Kingston.

Written for NEA Service
Paul Hodge of Abilene, Tex., did not like it when East passed his take-out double of one spade. His hand appeared to be most unsatisfactory to inflict a substantial penalty.

Most players would make the mistake of opening the king of hearts but Paul opened his singleton eight of spades. Incidentally, this lead is absolutely correct. When your partner passes your take-out double a trump lead becomes almost mandatory.

South made the mistake of winning the first trick, and the second mistake of leading the nine of hearts. Paul played the ten but East overtook with the ace and led a second trump. This killed dummy completely.

Declarer tried the diamond suit but he was too late. Hodge won with the ace and proceeded to run hearts. East shed two diamonds and one club while South did ruff the fifth heart led. He could have made another trick, if he had laid down a club but he made another mistake and played a second diamond.

East trumped, pulled South's last two trumps and led to Paul's ace of clubs. The four of hearts accounted for the last trick.

Declarer could have saved two tricks by letting the eight of spades hold the first trick and one trick in several different ways. I leave you to figure out those plays if you wish.

Briefly Told

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 19 (AP)—Eleven-year-old John Will of Batavia, N. Y., who says he hopes to play in it someday, is among the first contributors to a fund for a new football stadium at the U. S. Naval Academy.

The boy sent $1 with the explanation he earned the money shoveling snow. The young New Yorker's gift was the second received, the Academy reported yesterday.

The fund-raising campaign has a goal of two million dollars, which would be added to a million-dollar construction fund on hand for the stadium.

Those attending the ceremony tomorrow will be guests in the main stand at the public inaugural Monday.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 19 (AP)—Two North Carolina State College students have been placed on probation for two years in connection with the explosion of a home-made bomb in a newspaper building here.

City Court Judge L. A. Doub pronounced the sentences yesterday after Vincent J. Bilis, 18, of Penn Yan, N. Y., and Ray Hall, 18, of Port Allegany, Pa., pleaded guilty to charges of malicious damage to property.

The bomb caused minor damage when it went off Jan. 8 in the lobby of the News and Observer-Raleigh Times building. The students said they had designed the bomb to make noise but not cause injury or damage.

Oneida, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—Walter Meriam, 90, of Syracuse, died in a hospital last night of injuries suffered Thursday when his automobile went off Route 5 and struck a tree in nearby Chittenango.

Women's Interest Is Lumber Parley Subject: Purvis

Women's interest in new homes will be one of the main considerations at this year's convention of the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association, according to John E. Purvis, general manager of Island Dock Lumber Inc. of this city.

Mr. Purvis who will be among 5,000 delegates to the convention in New York city starting January 28, said women, especially housewives, are taking a tremendous interest in the construction of new homes and the purchase of material from retail lumber dealers.

He said a report will be heard at the convention on what women want in their homes, as determined at the recent Women's Congress meeting in Washington, D. C.

Attending the New York session with the Island Dock manager will be five area men, Henry Brigham, Raymond Walsh, Joseph Stout, Herbert Batta and Floyd Ellsworth.

Lumber retailers, Mr. Purvis pointed out, are continuing their activities in Operation Home Improvement, now in its second successful year and they anticipate great consideration on the more than 20,000,000 American homes in 1957.

Commissioner Albert M. Cole of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency will make a principal address at the New York convention.

Young Lawyers Group Regional Meeting Set

Ex-Parisian, Ill, Is Dead

Guthrie, Okla., Jan. 19 (AP)—Louis Nicholas Baker died yesterday at the age of 111.

A native of Letours, France, he came to America with his parents at the age of 1. He was reared near St. Louis.

Baker said he served with the Union Army in the Civil War, enlisting in the 6th Missouri Volunteers in June 1861 and receiving his discharge in Chattanooga in 1864.

Relatives said he could not prove the claim because his personal records had been lost or destroyed. A recent check of archives in Washington and St. Louis failed to produce conclusive records. Baker said he took no part in activities of the Grand Army of the Republic and never applied for a pension.

High School Rallies in Last Period to Top Liberty, 57-50

Maroon Registers 2nd DUSO Victory In Road Contest Grimaldi, Smith Share Game Scoring Honors

A run of eight points at the outset of the final period carried Kingston High to a hard earned 57-50 victory over tough Liberty Central last night at Liberty.

It was the second DUSO League win for the resurgent Maroons who just last Tuesday snapped a 27-game winning streak of mighty Arlington High. KHS is 2-4 in league play and now appears to be rolling after a dismal start.

Liberty, which won its first four DUSO starts, has now lost three in a row and slipped to fifth place—its lowest perch this season. The Redskins stand right in the middle of the nine-team circuit.

Grimaldi, Smith Show Way
Tony Grimaldi, making his second start after quitting the sick list, and veteran Bob Smith led the comeback after the homesters had carried a 44-39 lead into the last chukker. Grimaldi's jump shot launched the spree and Smith's sensational tip-in slashed the deficit to one point. Mel Williams and Bob Strong then hit from the foul line to put the locals in front to stay. Smith climaxed the march with another deuce and the Maroons were home free.

Grimaldi was the scoring leader for the game with 19 and Smith followed closely with 16. Williams hit 10 in his short stint. Lawrence and Thompson shared honors for Liberty with 13 each. Six-foot-six center Kevin Maloney notched an even dozen.

Kingston successfully bottled up Liberty's 5-7 scoring edge. Johnny Lawrence, holding him to 11 points. That marked the second best defensive job on the title set-shooter. Port Jervis earlier held him to 10 points.

Smith was responsible for shacking Lawrence who went into the game with a 19 plus game average. The KHS forward held him to just one field goal in the last period while Kingston was rallying to win. In the other stanzas, the Maroon played a zone.

KHS Shoots 41 Per Cent
Kingston shot its second good game in a row—hitting for 41 per cent. It made 22 of 52 shots, connecting for 4-14, 7-15, 6-12 and 5-12 in each quarter.

Liberty led at the first quarter 14-9. Kingston took a 2-0 and 4-2 lead in the opening minutes as George Uhl and Strong connected between a bucket by Lawrence. The Indians then spurted and led from six to eight points through the rest of the period and until intermission when their margin was slashed to 29-25.

Williams was inserted in the third period and he hit a couple of his specialties from far out to highlight the quarter's action. Grimaldi also shot six shots, in the period, blocking about six shots. In the final session as KHS's man-for-man completely upset its attack. It wound up getting just six points.

Johnson Shines off Board
Larry Johnson played another tremendous board game, fielding 14 rebounds to the Grimaldi. Smith captured 12, Strong 8, Williams 4 and Uhl 1.

Coach Jack Gilligan saluted his club for the fine victory. He praised Liberty and called them "a real good team."

Kingston faces Monticello Tuesday in its next start at the field house.

Wrigley Voted Slocum Award

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Philip K. Wrigley, president of the Chicago Cubs, has been voted the William J. Slocum Award for "long and meritorious service" to baseball by the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Wrigley who took over as president of the Cubs in 1934, two years after the death of his father, will receive the plaque at the writers' 34th annual dinner and show, Sunday, Feb. 3 at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Many outstanding men in baseball have received the award since it first was presented to Miller Huggins in 1929. The 1956 winner was Tom Yawkey, president of the Boston Red Sox.

Woodstock Runs Win Skein To 7 With Double Victory

The high-firing Woodstock Varsity, one of the top independent quintets in the area, ran its victory streak to seven straight by walloping Corner Rest, 126-50, and Boulevard Gulf, 65-58, in a doubleheader last night on its own floor.

The Varsitymen have (now) topped 11 games and dropped four on the season. Their next games are Friday at home against Accord and the Catskill Merchants. The Accord game is the opener at 7:30 p. m.

Marlboro Mauls
The romp over Corner Rest marked the second time this week that the Woodstock five had roared over the century mark. Monday it mauled an overmatched Marlboro club, 131-36.

Lloyd Tice led the assault on Corner Rest in the feature game with 36 points on 13 buckets and 10 free throws. Sam Wilson unloaded, 28, Ron McCrindle 23, Richie Hilton 12, Bill Kleine 13 and Dave Bailey 11.

Woodstock bombed the basket for 55 field goals in 115 attempts. Wilson had the best eye, hitting 14 for 22 while McCrindle dumped in 11 for 18 and Kleine 5 for 10.

Tice on Spree
Tice went wild in the first and third period, tabbing 5 deuces in each chapter. Wilson came off half his baskets in the third period.

Also when the Varsitymen exploded for 38 points, and McCrindle bucketed 4 of his 11. Hilton sparked a last period surge of 33 points with three long bombs from outside, but by that time the only thing that wasn't sure was the final count.

In the assist department, Wilson and Kleine were the leaders with 10 each and Tice handed off 8.

Ferraro High
T. Ferraro dropped in 16 and Charley Marable 14 for the Restaurantmen.

Bill Waterous' 25 points and Kleine's 21 showed the way in the Boulevard game. Kleine sank 8 of 14 attempts, but as a unit the club's shooting was a little off—26 for 72.

Joe Tremper led everyone with 31 points while Lucas added 13.

Pioneers Take 89-48 DUSO Tilt

Smarting from its upset loss at the hands of Newburgh Thursday, Poughkeepsie High took it out on winless Fallsburgh to the tune of 89-48 last night on the Comets' court.

The Pioneers, who had a 26-game streak halted by the Goldbacks, wasted little time in starting a new one. The victory coupled with Ellenville's defeat, put Coach Sam J. Kalloch's defending champions back all alone in first place with a 6-1 record.

Kalloch Uses Everyone
Kalloch used everyone in the romp and all 14 players on the squad broke into the scoring column. Stu Sonne was in long enough to bag 20 points while Lee Nelson and Don Longobardi, two other starters, bucketed 12 and 10, respectively.

Harvey Findling, the Comets' one-man scoring machine, topped the field with 21. Mike Sacks notched 15 more.

The Poughkeepsie junior varsity won just as easily, 85-37. Bob Baschen and Tom Fitcher led the way with 16 each. Herb Gold made 15 for Fallsburgh.

Jones Defeats Smallwood on 10-Round Decision

Cleveland, Jan. 19 (AP)—Ralph (Tiger) Jones, the No. 3 middleweight contender from Yonkers, didn't hurt his standing any last night as he punched out a 10-round unanimous verdict over Hardy (Bazooka) Smallwood of Brooklyn.

Jones didn't help his standing too much, either, for he was a 4-1 favorite over the mustachioed Smallwood who now has lost five straight but did a fair job of holding the Tiger despite the odds.

The Tiger, who has appeared on television about as often as some of the late-thirty movies, put his show (NBC) on for the stay-at-home fans. Only 1005 braved the near-zero temperatures, paying a gross of $1,872, and they appeared lonesome in the vast music hall.

The show was a hurry-up substitute for the Carmen Basilio-Johnny Saxton welterweight title scrap, postponed to Feb. 22 because of a right hand injury suffered by champion Basilio.

Referee Tony Labranche, under the five-point-per-round system, called Jones the winner by 49-42. Judge Herb Williams saw it 50-42 and judge Charles Bill 49-41.

Jones weighed 156, Smallwood 158 1/2.

Betsy Rawls's 73 Leads Tampa Open

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 19 (AP)—The old pros are in another close scramble in the $5,000 Tampa Women's Open golf tournament, and Betsy Rawls is two strokes to the good starting today's third round.

Miss Rawls shot 73 yesterday. She was the only player to match par for the 6,066-yard Palma Ceia course in the face of unpredictable winds and biting cold. That gave her 148 at the halfway point in the 72-hole event.

Tied for second at 150 were Louise Suggs and Patty Berg. They shot 75 each day.

Sawyers Repulse Marlboro, 95-57, For 10th Victory

Rolling up its largest point total of the season, Saugerties High crushed outclassed Marlboro Central, 95-57, for its 10th victory last night at Saugerties.

The win was the fifth in the UCAL for Coach Bud Smith's club as compared to just one loss and kept them right on the heels of pace-setting Rondout Valley. Marlboro's league mark is below .500 (2-3) and it stands fourth.

Smith Shows Mercy

The Sawyers probably could have gone over the century mark, but Smith held down the score somewhat by running in second and third stringers as early as three minutes into the second half. The entire 13-man squad got a shot at playing and only one player failed to score.

Big center Austin Kerin led the slaughter with 22 points. Larry Risal, his replacement, bagged 16 and Don Mormile 15. Billy Zeilman tabbed 10 in the short while he was in.

Richie Mandia, Marlboro's all-time scoring king, played the full game and was the individual leader with 29 points. Mike Caserto chipped in with 11 and Dom Favata 10.

Sawyers Start Fast

Saugerties piled up a 28-16 first quarter lead and was out of sight at intermission, 51-25. At the three-quarter break the score read 74-39.

The Sawyers jayvees won just as easily, 58-41, for their ninth win in 10 games. Sharpshooting Terry Carter canned 12, including 8 for 8 from the free throw line, while the Wolves brothers, Barry and Bob, hit 10 each. Lou DeSantis rimmed 15 for Marlboro.

Saugerties now takes a two-week vacation because of mid-term exams and doesn't return to action until Feb. 1 with Wallkill in a home game.

Sir Walter Scott's faithful servant Tom said to him one day, "Them are fine novels of yours; they are invaluable to me. When I come home very tired, and take up one of them, I asleep directly."

They are never alone that are accompanied by noble thoughts.

Many a wife whose husband is a more or less important business executive (at least in his own estimation) has wondered just what he does around the office that leaves him so utterly fagged out by the time he gets back home in the evening. The following, quoted from the Punch Bowl, may throw some light on the matter. It is supposed to represent the replies his secretary makes to persons who wish to converse with him.

A. M.

"I'm sorry, but Mr. Jinks hasn't come in yet."

"I expect him any minute now. Will you leave your number?"

"Mr. Jinks telephoned he would be late. Shall I have him call?"

"I expect him back from lunch any minute now."

"No, he hasn't returned. Can I take a message?"

"He's somewhere in the building. His hat is here."

"Yes, he was in, but he had to take some visitors over to Plant 2."

"Yes, I'm trying to locate him."

"I don't know whether he will be back or not. He has left No. 2."

"He should be here any minute now."

"Sorry, but Mr. Jinks called up and said he would be detained at the brokers."

"No, he went home just a few minutes ago."

Osowick Hits 30 in Port 84-51 Romp

Alex Osowick continued his amazing scoring, getting 30 points as Port Jervis High walloped Monticello, 84-51, at Port last night.

Osowick's output hiked his league-leading total to 198 points in seven games for a 28.3 norm. Overall, in nine games, the jump-shooting center ace has racked up 264 tallies.

The Monties tried a little possession ball strategy on the Red Raiders in the first period and only trailed 8-2 at the stop. But they gave it up after failing behind and Port started to pour it on. At intermission the tally was 36-15 for the home side.

Reserves See Action

With reserves going most of the second half, the Redmen steadily made a farce out of the game, as they captured their fifth DUSO triumph to go along with two losses. Right now they are deadlocked for second with Ellenville and Newburgh.

Eddie Mack and Harry Boyd, the other two-thirds of the Porters' terrible threesome, canned 20 and 17 respectively.

Mike Glick again topped the Monties with 17 while Ace Phillips threw in 12.

Monticello (1-6) faces Kingston Tuesday at the field house in its next start.

College Roundup

Texas '5' Shackles Krebs To Upset SMU, 77 to 68

The Associated Press

Nothing is certain in Texas sports except the unexpected.

Take last night for example. Southern Methodist, the nation's third ranked basketball team, had dropped only one of its 15 games, won the Southwest Conference holiday tournament and was 4-0 in the conference race. Unranked Texas was headed no place with an overall mark of 8-6 and a 1-3 conference record.

You guessed it. Texas won rather handily too. The score was 77-68. The Longhorns did it by bottling up the Mustangs' high scoring 6-8 Jim Krebs. Using a specially rigged zone defense successfully and bounding Krebs most of the game with two men, Texas held the SMU ace to 15 points.

SMU Halftime Leader

Smu led by 40-36 at halftime and the lead changed hands eight times in the second half before Kermit Becker put Texas ahead to stay at 48-46. Raymond Downs paced the Longhorns with 22 points, four less than Rick Herscher tallied for SMU.

Southern Methodist was the only member of the nation's top 20 in action but there was plenty of activity among other major outfits.

Tulane chalked up its fourth straight victory in the Southeastern Conference. Downing Louisiana State 66-64 when Stan Stumpf dropped in a twisting jump shot with six seconds left in an overtime period.

Princeton's Ivy League pacesetters also made it 4-0 in their circuit with a last second goal. Artie Klein, a substitute guard, let loose with a 45-foot hook without looking to give the Tigers a 61-59 overtime victory over Dartmouth.

Columbia Keeps Pace

Columbia, loser only to Princeton in the Ivy League, stayed right at the Tigers' heels with a 103-70 decision over Dartmouth. The Generals of Washington and Lee posted an 84-57 triumph over George Washington to remain a threat to pace setting West Virginia in the Southern Conference. West Virginia has a 5-0 league mark and the Generals 5-1. With the Colonials hitting only one field goal in the first 13 minutes, the Generals built a 21-point lead and coasted to victory with Dom Flora scoring 32 points.

In the only other Southern Conference game, William and Mary edged Virginia Tech 72-70 on a field goal and two free throws in the closing minutes by Don Engelken.

Dick Gaines drove past Guy Rodgers for four field goals in the closing minutes to lead Seton Hall to a 66-59 victory over slumping Temple. And Holy Cross snapped Colgate's six-game winning streak, 81-73.

Idaho Snaps Slump

Idaho ended a five-game losing streak in the PCC by whacking Oregon 64-46 as little 5-10 Bill Wilson led the attack with 20 points. Colorado A&M toppled Denver 70-62 in the Skyline.

Holy Cross took the measure of Colgate at Worcester, Mass. Art Andreoli's 22 points led the Crusaders to an 81-73 upset victory.

The Red Raiders' Bill Bissell had 25 for individual scoring honors.

It was the Crusaders' sixth victory as against five defeats. The defeat snapped Colgate's six-game winning streak. Colgate now has a 9-7 record.

At Oneonta, N. Y., New Haven Teachers took over the final two minutes of play and squeaked to a 76-75 victory over Hartwick. Other New York results were Union, 70, Hamilton 48 and Rochester Tech 88, Ontario Aggies 56.

Ellenville Upset by Middies

Middletown High knocked Ellenville Central from atop the DUSO League standing with a 47-42 upset victory last night at Ellenville.

Playing possession basketball, the upset-minded Middies dealt the high-riding Blue Devils' chances of copping the flag a lethal blow. Ellenville had entered the fray tied with Poughkeepsie for first, each with 5-1 records.

Middies Tactics

The Middies played cat-and-mouse with the home team and the strategy paid rich dividends. Ellenville was held to an incredible low of seven field goals and it wasn't for its creditable accuracy from the free throw line, the margin would have been greater. The Blue Devils made 28 of 37 charity attempts.

Mike Tannenbaum, the league's second high scorer, was shackled from the floor for one of the few times this season. He was held to just two baskets, but canned an amazing 17 for 22 from the foul line to wind up with a respectable 21 points.

Center Bill Marx topped the Middies with 18 points while captain Jim Merritt contributed 14. John Price had 9.

Closing Bid

Ellenville made a closing bid in the waning minutes, but it fell short. It got within four points of the visitors with about a minute to play, but MHS sank a couple of free throws to ice the verdict.

The win was Middletown's third in seven league starts. The strong MHS javay team won 69-43, as Tom Slover banged in 27 and Don Springstead 10. Matt Dubiner hit 22 for the victors.

Man Convicted Of Shooting Wife During Quarrel

Little Valley, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—A 26-year-old father of three children has been convicted of first degree manslaughter in the fatal shooting of his wife after he found a man in her bedroom closet.

A Cattaraugus county jury of seven women and five men deliberated almost seven hours before returning the verdict late last night.

Ralph Riggs was convicted of killing his wife, Sue Ann, 24, on Nov. 28 during a quarrel after he returned home to find her with Albert Marsh, 24, a milkman.

Other Man Suicide
Marsh killed himself the next night in the parking lot of the funeral home where Mrs. Riggs' body lay.

Beside him was a note: "I am sorry I have to do this. Life without Sue is nothing. These roses are for Sue."
He shot himself with a .22 caliber rifle.

Riggs faces a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison. Judge Philip Weiss set no date for sentencing.

Riggs had been indicted on a charge of second degree murder. He testified that his recollection of the night of the shooting was vague and disconnected. He said he had had two highballs and several bottles of ale at a party for a fellow employee at the company where he worked as a draftsman.

Quizzed by Son
He said the first time he realized what had happened was when his son Ralph, 3, asked him: "You didn't mean to shoot Mommy, did you?"

When asked if he remembered pulling the trigger of the gun, a 32 caliber pistol, he said: "Not of pulling it, no."

The Riggs' three children, Ralph, Christie, 2, and Mary, four months, were asleep in another bedroom at the time.

Mrs. Riggs was shot three times in the head.

Two Drivers Are Fined $15 on Traffic Counts

One driver, charged with operating without a license, was fined $10 or two days in jail, and another was fined $5 for passing a stop sign when they appeared in City Court today.

Walter R. Shields, 36, of 14 Ann street, was arrested on the license charge on Foxhall avenue by Officers William Snyder and Gilbert Gray on a charge of driving without a license. He was fined $10 or two days in jail when he appeared before Assistant City Judge Harry Gold this morning.

Candida Buttaraza, 20, of 106 Summit avenue, Catskill, was arrested on charges of driving without a license and passing a stop sign following a two-car mishap at Smith avenue and Grand street. The first charge was dismissed when she produced her driver's license in City Court today, and she paid a $5 fine on the stop sign charge.

Miss Buttaraza was driving a 1953 sedan which was in collision with a 1951 sedan operated by Raymond D. Roux, 19, of 139 Third avenue, police reported. The Roux vehicle, traveling east on Smith avenue, was damaged on the left front fender, and grille, while the Buttaraza car, headed south on Grand street, was damaged on the right front light and bumper, police said.

Chief Justice Earl Warren will administer the oath to the President. The White House has not yet announced who will swear in Nixon.

The Sunday ceremony is necessary because the Constitution says a president's term shall begin on Jan. 20.

Then, on Monday at noon (EST), Eisenhower and Nixon will repeat the oath-taking before thousands packed into the capitol plaza and millions watching on television. TV and radio also will bring other events, including the parade, into the homes of citizens across the country.

Children Die in Fire

Naugatuck, Conn., Jan. 19 (AP)—Two children perished in a fire early today that sent three other members of the family to a Waterbury hospital in fair condition. The children, whose bodies were found at the bottom of rear stairs, were Elizabeth Doudy, 4, and Regina, 10. Fire Chief Edward Galvin said the children apparently were overcome by smoke in a desperate effort to escape. Injured as they jumped from upper bedrooms of the one-family, three-story frame house on Melbourne court, were Mrs. Tessie Doudy, 42; Margaret, 18, and George, 12, taken to St. Mary's Hospital, and the father, Earl, 40, who was not hospitalized.

RECORD-BREAKING FLIGHT AROUND THE WORLD—Newsmag shows route followed by three U. S. Air Force B-52 jet bombers that made a non-stop flight around the world in the record-breaking time of 45 hours and 19-plus minutes (official Air Force time). It was the first time the huge eight-engine planes have circled the globe non-stop on a simulated combat mission. The flight started from Castle Air Force Base, Calif., and terminated at March Air Force Base, Calif. (NEA Newsmag) around the world, and much farther without refueling. But in approaching the problem, designers are encountering some troublesome factors.

Would Cut Speed
Among them is the probable weight of the first atom-powered planes, caused by the nuclear reactors and the shielding to prevent a dangerous radiation from the fission process.

More weight means that the aircraft must use a heavy proportion of its power to remain airborne. This means less speed.

In this era of swift, high-flying jet interceptors and anti-aircraft guided missiles, speed is supremely important for bombers.

'Routine Flight'
March Air Force Base, Calif., Jan. 19 (AP)—"A routine flight." That's the way air force men describe a hop by three B-52 bombers in which the routine took place five to 10 miles high in the sky for 45 hours, 19 minutes.

After the red-eyed and weary crewmen clambered yesterday from the trio of stratofortresses which set a new non-stop, round-the-world record, Lt. Col. James H. Morris, 40, said that it was just like other long distance flights.

"Oh sure," he said, "we stayed up a little longer, but that's the only difference."

son, both Broome county Republicans.

Saxby said, "I think perhaps I made my point clear. We can do that in this county."

Officials of the public works department were not available for comment. The office of Democratic Gov. Harriman said it had never heard of the case.

Cole, who did not identify the letter writer, said that the author had told of resigning one job in anticipation of being assigned to another.

Cole said the man had qualified for the newer post.

Once the resignation was submitted, Cole quoted the letter writer, a demand for enrollment in the Democratic party, was made.

Sullivan Names New Chairman Of Supervisors

Monticello, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—Sullivan county's board of supervisors disposed of a previously knotty problem yesterday by electing a chairman in four minutes.

Last Monday the board staged a 14-hour session without naming a new chairman.

Elected yesterday, by an 8-5 vote, was Democrat Peter F. Callahan of Highland. It was his fifth term.

Democrat Joseph Raffa of Neversink, a Democrat recently released from a hospital, cast the decisive vote to break an existing 7-7 deadlock.

Two Republicans knowing that the Democrats possessed a majority, stayed away from the meeting to account for the 8-5 vote. Callahan's opponent was Republican Samuel Baer of Callicoon.

The board had been wrangling over the chairmanship since its organizational meeting Jan. 3. Prior to last Monday's meeting, the Democrats had adjourned to a hospital and elected Callahan with Raffa's bedside vote. The Republicans, taking legal action, had the results of the hospital meeting nullified.

The time has been changed to conform with bus schedules, and to make it easier for members from Rosendale and Tillson to attend meetings to start 11 a. m.

At the January 8 meeting, all incumbent officers were re-elected. They are: Chairman, Mrs. Elsie Ingram; vice chairman, Mrs. Arthur O'Leary; secretary, Mrs. Walter Hildebrandt; and treasurer, Mrs. Frank Don.

The next work meeting will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. at Bloomingdale firehall. The first lesson in copper enameling will be given, and leaders in this lesson will be Mrs. Leslie Evely and Mrs. Don. The show to be staged at Kingston High School auditorium on Monday at 8 p. m. promises to be one of the best ever held to help fight polio, according to the array of talent listed.

Special Texas Vote May Give Senate to GOP

Austin, Tex., Jan. 19 (AP)—The special election to fill the U. S. Senate seat vacated by Gov. Price Daniel will be held April 2 giving Republicans another chance this year to gain control of the Senate.

Governor Daniel announced yesterday that the special election would be held on a winner-take-all basis. He said no runoff would be held.

Division Feared

Democrats fear that with one Republican and six Democrats running for the seat a division of Democratic votes could throw the election to the GOP.

Senate Republican Leader William Knowland of California has said that anytime the Republicans had a majority in the Senate he would move to reorganize the body.

Democrats now control the Senate 48-47. Should Texas elect a Republican a 48-48 tie would result. Vice-president Nixon would break the tie by voting with the Republican party.

Daniel's Senate seat was filled this week with the temporary appointment of William Blakley of Dallas. He was appointed by Allan Shivers about two hours before Shivers stepped out of office as governor. The appointment came on Tuesday, the day he became governor.

Blakley Won't Run

Blakley, who has crossed party lines in Texas many times, announced in Washington Wednesday that he would vote as a Democrat. He has said he would not run for election.

The remainder of Daniel's Senate term runs until January 1959.

Candidates for the special election are Ralph Yarborough, Austin attorney who sought the Democratic nomination for governor three times and met defeat at the hands of Shivers and once by Daniel; state Sen. Searcy Bracewood of Houston; Jim Hart of Austin; Congressman-at-large Martin Dies of Lufkin; Hugh Wilson of Port Arthur and Virgil E. Arnold of Houston, and the lone Republican, Thad Hutcheson of Houston.

Seek Rural Road Inclusion in New Highway Program

Ithaca, Jan. 19—Rural roads should be included in New York's highway expansion program, directors of the New York Farm Bureau said today.

"County highway needs have been neglected for years. Because income has not kept pace with increased costs, counties have confined highway work largely to maintenance and are not able to build necessary new mileage," they informed Austin Erwin, chairman, New York State Commission on Agriculture.

Money for Thruways

Farm Bureau said that most of the moneys from the federal highway program and the $500,000 state bond issue will correctly go to high speed highways, "but perhaps to the neglect of the county and town road systems."

"It seems clear that steel and cement, needed in great quantities in construction of big highways, will probably be scarce in the next few years due to extensive demand, they said.

"Unlike the primary system the county and town systems require relatively little steel and cement and a mile of such highway can be constructed at a very small fraction of the cost of a mile of primary highway.

"We recommend that the Erwin Commission study the situation, looking toward:

1. More adequate finance of county highway construction and maintenance.
2. Further expansion of the 10-year town highway improvement program."
